

Chinese Scholarship Opportunities for American students

Sponsored and supported by the Chinese Embassy in Washington DC, Sannam S4 will facilitate a series of webinar presentations regarding the opportunities for American students to study in China with scholarships for long-term degree-seeking programs and short-term credit transfer programs.

Read more and register with the links below.

Who should participate?

We encourage Senior International Officers, Study Abroad Office Directors, and Faculty Members who have existing programs and/or plan to guide their students on study abroad options in China to join. Participants will receive information on the scholarships along with the application procedure for their students.

About the speakers: Organizations and institutions that have access to the scholarships and have experiences with students that benefited from these programs.

Look forward to seeing you there.

This scholarship initiative was announced by Ambassador Cui Tiankai in November 2019 on the occasion of the celebration of the 40th Anniversary of China-US Student Exchange at the Chinese Embassy in Washington DC. Sannam S4 has the great honor to work with the Embassy to promote the program, and serve as the contact for program management and application processing support. Following the introduction of the scholarship program, Sannam S4 representatives will provide a detailed explanation on eligibility criteria, application process, timelines and answer queries from the participants.
